The PSA will launch the new standard for the Electronic Security Sector, PSA 74:2019 on Thursday, 28th March 2019 at ISEC 2019.

The new standard which will replace S.R.40, will form an integral part of the licensing of the Access Control, CCTV and Intruder Alarm sectors. It has been developed in partnership with industry and following a recent public consultation with stakeholders.

At 12 noon on Thursday 28th March at ISEC2019, the PSA will host a briefing to officially launch the standard and deliver a presentation on the main changes contained in the document. There will also be an opportunity to those involved in the industry to participate in a questions and answer session. This is your chance to meet with the PSA in advance of the new standard becoming part of the licensing regime later this year.
